

XI Chapter Publishes Au Courant

XI Chapter, located at Texas Tech, Lubbock, Texas is on the move, strengthening from within and expanding its involvements externally. The once small core of committed brothers can now be defined as the majority of the chapter, and the continuation of this productive atmosphere is assured through the quality of incoming members and emerging leadership.

There is a continuance of an active, involved and expanding professional organization. XI members are becoming more dedicated to the goal of international awareness, participation and brotherhood while winning greater respect and attention from the campus community.

The National Board of Governors is proud of XI's recent efforts in the publication of the AU-COURANT by Linde Lowry, General Editor, Kelly Pratas, Alumni Editor, and Toni Reese, Pledge Editor.

Among the items included in the first issue of XI's newsletter were the following: four panel discussions on such topics as reversed discrimination and human rights; four guest lecturers, including an address by Don Anderson, Board Member of Cotton, Incorporated; two international forums on such topics as multi-national corporations and their effect on LDC's; and XI's annual wine and cheese party.

The National Board sends its congratulations to all of XI chapter, especially Linde Lowry, Kelly Pratas and Toni Reese.
