DPE INITIATES 27 NEW BROTHERS BY MATTHEW SCHMIDT(AL-'03)

This spring, Alpha Chapter proudly inducted its 171st line in the hallowed ranks of Brotherhood. The 171st line stands as the second largest in the history of the fraternity, a sure sign of our continued growth and vitality.

Line Captain Bro. Alexander Hamilton (A1'94) was proud to initiate such a historic line. He had previously served as Line Captain for the 157th Line.

The 171st initiation was particularly special for Bro. John Frisoli (AL'63), who saw his son, Adam Frisoli, become a brother.

"ROACH" PIANO DEDICATED AS PART OF 85TH FOUNDER'S DAY BY ALEXANDER SANJENIS (AL'02)

Before the revelry and celebration of the 85th Founder's Day, Alpha Chapter dedicated a new piano at 3401 in honor of Bro. Eric "Roach" Karlson.

During the dedication, Bro. Karlson's daughter Pam recalled her father's love of both the fraternity and music.

The piano was a joint project between Karlson's family and fraternity Brothers, who felt that the addition of a piano to the Great Room would be a lasting tribute to "Roach."

Karlson was a Georgetown icon, and his piano skills regularly filled the basement of the House with party-goers. Now, current residents of the House are treated to the tunes of brothers vying to succeed Roach.

The 85th Founder's Day was a tremendous success, with hundreds of Brothers, family, friends and pledges filling Georgetown's City Tavern Club.

ALPHA BROTHERS WED LONGTIME SWEETHEARTS

This summer saw two Brothers of the Class of 2004 exchanging vows with two lovely Georgetown alumnae.

On June 26, Bro. Brian Hahs (Al'01) married Kristen Wayne, a Sister in the DPE Sorority. Proudly at Brian's side among his groomsmen were Bros. Kevin Burel and Andrew Griffin., with many more Brothers in attendance.

Kirsten was likewise accompanied by many of her DPE Sisters, some of whom serving as her bridesmaids. After a honeymoon basking in the beauty of Cancun, the Mr. and Mrs. Hahs are now settling into their Rockville, MD home.

July 24 saw another Alpha Brother wed, as Bro. Christopher Gladbach (Al'01) married Katie Einspanier.

Bro. Marc Gersen (Al'01), who had flown back to Washington from the University of California at Berkeley to attend the wedding, was thrilled to see the couple married.

"The wedding ceremony was beautiful and I am very happy for Chris and Katie. We could tell for awhile they were perfect for each other," said Marc.

Chris and Katie are currently students at Georgetown Law.

Both couples met as undergrads at Georgetown, showing that love still exists on the Hillitop.

Alpha and Epsilon Chapters Meet:

Alpha's Bros. Sanjenís, Duffy, Schmidt and Cantalupi join Epsilon Chapter's Maximillian Schutze for dinner at San Francisco's Cliff House overlooking the Pacific Ocean.

Cruising around in a stylish rented Dodge Magnum (often called "the Cadillac of Dodge vehicles"), the troupe toured the Golden State this summer, encountering Brothers, exotic wildlife, and the occasional native Californian.

The sojourn began in San Francisco with a visit to Fisherman's Wharf and a tour of two tall-mast racing vessels.

Heading north to Napa valley, the wine capital of the United States, Schmidt purchased enough wine to make even a Jesuit jealous.

Next on the agenda was Yosemite National Park. Ever the intrepid Eagle Scout, Duffy managed to exercise the primordial skill of starting a fire, allowing the group to enjoy s'mores and Maker's Mark under the night sky, while fending off the hungry bears and coyotes.

Continuing South, we visited the Reagan Library, where Ronny ascended into Heaven, and enjoyed a great lunch on the beach with Bro. Wendelin. After this bit of class, our DPE training came forth again as we headed to our Disneyland hotel, where we enjoyed Cuban cigars courtesy of Bro. Lacovara and the city of Nogales, Mexico, along with tall glasses of scotch on our poolside terrace.

We were joined by Bro. Greenwood and his brother Andy, who having attended the Orange Bowl in January, had free tickets to Disneyland.

They also continued to rub in the fact that USC beat Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

The visit to Disneyland was a holy pilgrimage for Sanjenís, akin to visiting the Vatican, Jerusalem, or Mecca. The holiness of the day was not shattered by annoying children complaining that we cut in line to meet Mickey, nor by the fist fight necessary to defend our prime viewing spot for the evening's fireworks extravaganza.

Having worn out our welcome in Disneyland, we blazed a 10 mph trail to San Diego, alternatively known as the far end of the L.A. parking lot. There, Bro. Boswell was stationed onboard the USS Comstock, training in the art of blowing stuff up on the tax-payers' account. After touring the fine watering holes of the Gas Lamp district, we visited the San Diego Zoo before returning to the wonderland of LAX.

Bro. Scott Wendelin (Al' 73)(second from left) shows his younger Brothers a bit of class, L.A.-style at Santa Monica's famed Jonathan Club.

gently down the stream. Merrily,
merrily, merrily, merrily,
life is but a dream.

Did you know...

Walt Disney was a Delta Phi Brother?

Bro. Disney was initiated into Delta Chapter at USC on May 23, 1950. Five years later, he presided over the opening of Disneyland.

Fifty-years later, his model for theme parks has been carried around the world to Florida, Paris, Tokyo, and Hong Kong.

Not only did they let us into the Concierge's lounge,
they gave us booze!

Bro. Greenwood shows off his new Golden Ears, proving that a grown man can wear a child's hat in public and not be ashamed.

Bros. Schmidt and Duffy cool-off after a 3-hour 2000 ft ascent to the top of Yosemite Falls.

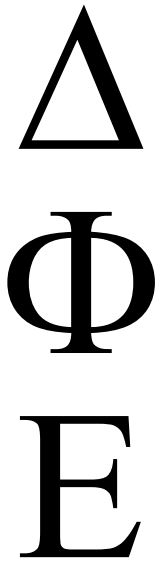

After fending off several 8-year olds, Bro. Lacovara finally pulled out the Sword and was crowned King of Fantasyland. He's now off in a land far, far away, ruling his kingdom of 6-ft. rodents and flying elephants.

The gang on Bro. Boswell's ship, the U.S.S. Comstock.. The Comstock is a marine transport ship, capable of carrying troops, tanks, and equipment. No need to worry about buttpirates on this thing.
